

Letter Of Intent
Community Orchard
124 4th St., Lyons

My intent with the community orchard is to have a place of gathering for the community, learning for the kids, fresh organic fruit for the people of Lyons and possibly extra fruit to give to LEAF or LCF in years of good harvest.

For the last 10 years or so, I have had my own mini orchard in Boulder, so I know the ups and downs with the weather and fruit production. I also know the work that goes into keeping up an orchard. I'm excited to share this with the town as well as the middle and high schoolers who will be assisting from the Environmental Tech Class.

I know that I won't be around forever, so I want to set this up so that the orchard will be sustainable long into the future.

Sincerely

Glen Delman

The Lyons Community Farm Project is excited to participate with Glen Delman in his orchard venture at 124 4th ave. The address is already updated on our insurance. This is exactly the type of growth we are all about. His interest and desire to have an orchard in our town is wonderful!

Already we have a local setting up a list of people willing to help care for the trees. Our mission at the farm project is to create food resilience in our town. It is a slow but purposeful pace. But having the ability to grow food for future generations will have a ripple effect on the quality of life in our small town. The effect is already being seen in the interest of the children at the high school and middle school level. Mr. Glover's environmental tech class is on board and it's only a matter of time before the elementary school gets wind of this. I will also make it my business to care for the trees and to organize the people willing to help from our 350 face book members.

Please support and allow Glen to move forward with his orchard idea. Freedom grows. Let's cultivate a future ripe with possibility.

In joy,
Adrean Kirk

'I am interested in participating with the proposed Lyons Community Orchard program. I would be happy to participate in planting, maintenance, pruning, harvesting and watering the orchard. I live at 219 Park, and regularly walk past the Botanical Gardens, so it wouldn't be difficult to include periodic orchard maintenance to our walls. We have one of the smaller lots in town, with significant shade, so planting fruit trees on our property isn't really viable. The Community Orchard would be a gray asset for us and the community at large.

Simply Bee Conservation

Dear Town of Lyons,

I am writing to present Simply Bee Conservation's support in collaborating with the Lyons Community Orchard Project and Glen Delman.

This partnership is aligned with our commitment to enhance and preserve local ecosystems.

1. Ecological Conservation: By focusing on native plants, bees, pollinators, birds, and ecosystems, this initiative will contribute to the safeguarding and sustainability of our local ecological balance.
2. Aesthetic Enhancement: The strategic planting of native flowers will not only beautify the neighborhood but also reinforce the local flora and fauna, serving a dual purpose of aesthetics and function.
3. Orchard Pollination Support: The integration of pollinators within close proximity to the orchard will naturally enhance its pollination, promoting the productivity and health of the orchard.
4. Educational Outreach: This project serves as a living classroom to educate residents about pollinators and ecological stewardship, fostering awareness and community engagement.
5. Community Food Systems Connection: By connecting residents to food systems, we will facilitate a deeper understanding of the ecological processes that underpin our daily sustenance.
6. Lyons Community Pollinator Corridor Integration: This installation will become part of a wider network that creates accessible pathways for native bees, aiding in the rebuilding of populations essential for maintaining the equilibrium of our native ecosystems.

Simply Bee Conservation is committed to this endeavor, recognizing the profound impact it can have on community well-being and environmental health. We kindly invite you to consider supporting this project, confident that it aligns with our shared goals for ecological responsibility and community enhancement.
